FRED WILSON: ARTISTS TALK ON ART

Join us for a special evening with Fred Wilson and a screening of his Art:21 film on PBS.
Moderated by Art21 Assistant Curator, Wesley Miller

About Fred Wilson

Appropriating curatorial methods and strategies, Fred Wilson creates new contexts for the display of art and artifacts found in museum collections, along with wall labels, sound, lighting, and non-traditional pairings of objects. His sculptures and installations lead viewers to recognize that changes in context create changes in meaning, and thereby shape interpretations of historical truth and artistic value. Wilson received a John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation Achievement Award (1999) and the Larry Aldrich Foundation Award (2003). He is the Distinguished Visiting Fellow in Object, Exhibition, and Knowledge at Skidmore College. Fred Wilson represented the United States at the Biennial Cairo (1992) and Venice Biennale (2003).

About Artists Talk on Art

The mission of Artists Talk on Art (ATOA) is to provide a forum for critical discussions in the visual arts. After 30 years, ATOA is one of the longest running art discussions, depending upon artists who are willing to talk about their work and volunteer their time. ATOA is a not-for-profit corporation run by artists.

About Art21

Art21, Inc. is a nonprofit contemporary art organization dedicated to introducing a large national, and increasingly international, audience to contemporary visual art and artists working in the United States today. Art21 has produced three seasons for PBS (Fall 2001, 2003, 2005), creating a biennial event featuring 55 established and emerging artists to date. In addition to the Emmy-nominated PBS series, Art:21—Art in the Twenty-First Century, Art21 produces companion books, education materials, and an extensive Web site: www.pbs.org/art21
